Join up with a volunteer non-profit program.

Volunteering is a great way to meet new people, get some exercise, and involve yourself in a positive project that can lift your spirit. It also comes without a cost (or very little) to you and can provide a lot of entertainment and a fulfilling day when you're in the right mindset.

I've come to spend more and more of my time volunteering, serving on various committees and people helping groups in the community. I am on a few local area towns and Church committees. It is hands - down the best thing I have ever done. Be a volunteer with your local Lions Club or other Non - Profit Org. and you will feel much better about yourself. Be only a volunteer – for a time - if later you wish, you may later to join this local Lions Club it is later and it is up to you. You'll be meeting other people who share your interests, which gives you an easy opener when striking up a conversation.

Meet many new people and also maybe meet the next Him or Her for YOUR life. This Web Blog is sponsored by a Lions Club.

Okay: Note: Don’t take your young folk to Church?

Well then? How are they going to step across from their life from High School on over to becoming young Adult and on to College? They will now be without YOU!

You tell me you are a Christian family?

From age 11 years old up to age 16, when they get out away from you, out from under YOUR supervision, like let’s say away out in cars, who will they look to for any guidance?

Other kids their own age?

YOU tell me YOUR kids are going to end up in Heaven?

TEEN-2-TEEN

TEEN-2-TEEN: MARCH 2019 OVERCOMING REJECTION BY MICHAELA REINERTSON

Rejection. It's a hard word that no one likes to mention in everyday conversation. It's something we all strive to forget, to pretend it doesn't exist. We think that if we focus on other issues or things, it'll magically disappear. We create this mindset that if we don't think about it, it never happened.

But it did.

My biological father rejected me as a child. He broke apart my family, and then said he loved me. He ignored me through my growing up years, and then tried to win my affections with gifts. He was never there for me, and so I'll always have that piece missing from my life. I thought pretending it never happened would make it go away. But that was a lie I was believing for the sake of not having to deal with it, so I wouldn't have to forgive him. It wasn't healthy.

To put it bluntly, rejection hurts. The hole we get from the pain of someone dismissing us is something that taints our worldview, and our view of ourselves. But the freedom that comes with knowing you are loved beyond measure by someone who will never abandon you is life-changing.

God loves you. He will never randomly decide one day that you aren't worth HIS time and throw you away. HE will never say HE doesn't want you. HE went through the very same thing you're dealing with right now. HE, too, was rejected by the people. HIS heart ached for them to come and know HIM, but HE couldn't force them. Their rejection was their choice. But HE knows what you're feeling, and HE understands. HE's wrapping his arms around you, saying "I love you! I will always love you!"

Michaela Reinterson

You don't understand, I can help you! This pit you're trapped in, I can carry you out of! I love you, and I want to help you! Just let me, please."

Restoration from rejection is possible, but until you believe that you are loved by an amazing, unchanging God, there will always be that hole. If you get anything out of this article, I hope that it's this: You are loved.

The art of falling in love By Megan Griffin

Falling in love is a little like laughter. It makes your heart feel like it's about to burst, and even when the cause of it is forgotten, the joy stays behind.

The path wound narrow but worn, etched into the dusty sandstone of the Medora butte. We set out just after midnight, when the last twilight gray gave way to black night. The way was eroded and eaten away by weather, but we followed each other closely so as to warn of holes and crevices. The air, crisp and clear, retained silence that was stunningly empty. We lost track of time, trekking up the hill step by step. Only when the path leveled at the top did we spread out and look up.

Above us, the sky unfolded.

Stars winked into view one at a time, nudging aside the black glass of the sky.

And without a camera to capture the memory, I stared. I memorized the moment. I sat at the edge of a butte I couldn't see down and fell in love, breathing in crisp silence, feeling the soft powder of dirt under my fingertips. I fell in love with my heartbeat, with the clarity of living.

When I look back on the past year, I remember a blur. A general path of where I was to where I am, the direction I took to get here — but I don't remember conversations. I don't remember the smell of the lilacs when they bloomed in the spring. I don't remember when the first leaves burst into color in the fall. I don't remember the sky. The apples ripened, my senior year started, friendships grew. It could have been one of the most pivotal years of my life, but I let it fly by without catching onto the minutes.

With the new year demanding change, I have a resolution. I will fall in love with my life every day. I will breathe. Take one moment at a time. Smile sometimes. Cry sometimes. Worry less and live this year like I am sitting on top of a butte without a camera. I encourage you to do the same.

Some people call it living in the moment. I call it falling in love.

TEEN-2-TEEN FEBRUARY 2018

Teachers can change the world
By Hannah
Newman

As a young girl, I always enjoyed school. As I continued through my elementary, middle and high school years, my feelings for school did not waiver. As a young elementary student, I remember playing “school” with my little brothers. We set up a classroom in our living room and I even assigned “homework.” It was during those times when I knew what I wanted to be when I grew up.

I have a passion for learning and working with children, which is why I have decided to attend Minot State University in the fall and pursue a degree in elementary education.

Nelson Mandela stated, “Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world.” Teachers are world changers. I want to be a teacher because they have an opportunity to impact children’s lives.

My teachers have influenced my life in more ways than I can count. I grew up in a rural school with small classroom sizes, which was extremely beneficial because it provided me with one-on-one attention from my teachers.

They pushed me to try harder not only on assignments, but also in life. I want to instill my passion for the importance of education to my students, just like my teachers did for me.

Another reason I decided to pursue elementary education is that I love working with children.

Throughout my life, I have always been involved with children, whether babysitting for neighbors and friends, teaching Sunday school classes at church, or even working at my school's - after school program. I always find joy when I work with children and that is why I want to follow my passion.

I feel confident in my decision to pursue elementary education in the coming fall. I cannot wait to have the ability to influence children through their learning. I am excited to one day have my own classroom of students. Being a teacher is one of the most rewarding careers in the workforce and I cannot wait to experience that career.

Hannah Newman, 18, is a senior at South Prairie School, where she is involved in yearbook committee and Sources of Strength. Next year, Hannah is planning on attending Minot State University to pursue a degree in elementary education. She enjoys window shopping for shoes, being with friends and family, and participating in church events. She loves salty snacks and baking/decorating sugar cookies. Hannah is the daughter of Jay and Marcie Newman, who are members of Verendrye Electric Cooperative and SRT Communications Inc. WWW.ndliving.com

The reward of reading by Sylvie Winje

“The more that you read, the more things you’ll know. The more that you learn, the more places you’ll go.” This cute quote, from Dr. Seuss, is not only catchy, but has some amazing truths. Reading helps us become smarter, is entertaining, and can change our life. I believe reading should be an important part of everyone’s life.

Reading helps us become smarter and learn more. President Abraham Lincoln did not have a good early education. When he was young, he read a ton of law books and ended up becoming a lawyer, without attending college.

According to Anne Cunningham and Keith Stanovich, “Even a child with limited reading and comprehensive skills will build vocabulary and cognitive structures through reading.” When we read, we are learning new ideas, becoming smarter, and increasing our vocabulary.

Reading is entertaining. Ever since I was a little girl, I have loved to read. Most often, you cannot find me without a book or Kindle in my purse! Books take us to new worlds and allow us to meet new characters, who may be in situations similar to us. Books can grip our emotions, causing us to giggle, cry or explode in anger. When I read “Where the Red Fern Grows” a few years ago, I enjoyed it immensely. I sobbed my eyes out at the end. Reading is a pleasurable pastime which can make you lose track of time.

Reading can change our life. Hudson Taylor read a gospel tract as a teenager, and later became one of the most influential missionaries in his time, bringing thousands of Chinese people to Christ. This all happened because he READ something.

Many authors slip subtle, yet life-changing, messages into the books they write. For example, Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote the book, “Uncle Tom’s Cabin” at the time of the Civil War. Thousands of people throughout the world read the book and changed their views regarding slavery. In the same way, books can impact us only if we read them. Books are extremely powerful and can change us in ways we never thought were possible.

If you want to become smarter, have an enjoyable pastime, and possibly change your life, then READ, READ, READ.

Sylvie Winje is a sophomore homeschooled student. She enjoys playing piano at nursing homes, writing, reading, drawing, storytelling and volunteering at church. Sylvie is the daughter of Paul and Audrey Winje, who are members of Cass County Electric Cooperative. WWW.ndliving.com

TEEN-2-TEEN--MARCH 2016

Making the transition from elementary school to junior high Get moving!

Nelson Meidinger

The transition from 6th to 7th grade was very easy for me. One of my favorite aspects about the transition is moving from classroom to classroom. In elementary school, sitting in one classroom for hours in the same environment can get quite boring, but one downside of moving from classroom to classroom is the possibility of getting a tardy if I'm not in the room when the bell rings. Another perk about moving to other classrooms during the school day is it allows me to have more teachers. In one classroom, the students are stuck with only one teacher, and if the students don't really like that teacher it can get to be a long day.

When moving classrooms, it keeps students in a good mood because all the teachers have different attitudes that can lift their students' spirits. Also, when moving class rooms it seems like the days blow right by, and before I know it I'm home. A bonus to being in seventh grade is that I don't have to be at school as early as in elementary school. Middle school and high school students are able to walk the halls and talk to their friends in the morning, giving us a little social hour before we begin the day.

Nelson Meidinger, 12, is a seventh grader at Ashley Public School, where he is active in football, golf and basketball. He also enjoys fishing, hunting, playing sports and helping on his family's ranch. Nelson is the son of Eric and Marisa Meidinger, who are members of KEM Electric Cooperative. WWW.ndliving.com

TEEN-2-TEEN - Help others overcome fears

Hunter Gallagher

I felt unsure about going from sixth to seventh grade because of the unknown. During the summer, I'd go to my sister with all of my questions about seventh grade, and she'd answer them the best she could. She is the only reason I was able to go to the first day of seventh grade thinking that it was going to be okay. Without her, I'd have gone into my first day nervous, anxious and unprepared.

There are multiple aspects I like about seventh grade that I didn't have in sixth grade. I like that I get to walk from class to class and that there are different teachers for each class. In seventh grade there are also more opportunities to interact with kids from different grades. Now that it's half way through the school year, I realize that during the summer I was worried for nothing. One thing I want to do is help sixth graders this year who are worried about seventh grade, and explain to them that it's a simple, painless transition.

Hunter Gallagher, 13, is a seventh grader at Ashley Public School, where she is active in FBLA, volleyball, golf and speech. She also enjoys reading, knitting and playing the flute. Hunter is the daughter of Shawn and Bonnie Gallagher, who are members of the KEM Electric Cooperative. WWW.ndliving.com

Matthew Mills

Hire a teen! - by Matthew Mills

Imagine, being a teen who lives in a small community with little to no work experience. Imagine that teen trying to find a job. Yes, usually someone with at least two years of experience would be a better applicant for nearly any job. But you never know what kind of initiative teens have until you give them a chance.

Why aren't teens getting hired in a small community? In a small community, there are few jobs available for anyone. When a job is available, it seems an adult is hired, rather than a teen. Teens are told they have no work experience. Teens might be seen as not having a good work ethic, but this is not always the case. Many teens are willing to work, so they can start making money of their own.

Why should you hire a teen to work for you? Teenagers go to school for almost eight hours a day and many of them also participate in extracurricular activities. If they apply for a job, it means they are committed and believe they can tackle a job as well as school and extracurricular activities.

If you hire a teen, you are giving them a chance many other businesses will not give them. You are giving them their first work experience and helping them understand what it is like to handle many things at once.

How does hiring a teen benefit you? Hiring a teenager will help them immensely but will help you at the same time. If you hire a teenager, you get their hard work and a fresh perspective. Why not give teens the chance? You will be benefiting them and yourself.

And, yes, teens can handle school and work. I asked a senior cashier who has been working at my local Cenex since she was a sophomore if she thought her job affected her grades. She told me her job made her strive to keep her grades constant due to the extra work she has outside of school.

So, when you're hiring your next summer employee, don't dismiss a teenager who applies for the job. They just may add a lot to your business!

Matthew Mills, 16, is a sophomore at Powers Lake High School, where he is involved in the Future Business Leaders of America, FFA and track. He enjoys writing, extracurriculars and watching Netflix. Matthew is the son of Kevin and Jamie Mills.

TEEN-2-TEEN: MARCH 2017

Teens CAN have a voice at the Legislature By Megha Bharadwaj

A school is an educational facility where learning takes place and students make friends. It must be a safe place both inside and on its grounds — but currently, no law in North Dakota exists to protect students from high-risk sexual offenders who might be living in the immediate area.

These offenders are dangerous to people my age because they are likely to offend again based on their previous actions. Currently, they are allowed to live anywhere, including near schools and childcare centers.

One of my classmates, Katie Kelsch, took the initiative and talked to Lisa Meier, a legislator who represents District 32 in the House of Representatives. Rep. Meier stated it is extremely important to protect children from people who could reoffend.

Rep. Meier also talked to me about the process of this bill, starting with conversations that began last year. Katie and her mother had approached Rep. Meier because Katie wasn't comfortable with the idea of a dangerous sex offender living near her school. Rep. Meier decided to write a bill and propose it to the N.D. House of Representatives. I believe in this bill, as well as many of my classmates.

Megha Bharadwaj

Why did none of us bring this issue up before? Why do we, as teenagers, not give our opinions on these kinds of issues?

I believe most people our age feels like we can do nothing, and we are not represented. That has been proven wrong by kids across America, including Katie. She never struck me as the type of person who could inspire a bill or make a dramatic change in the world. When I asked her why she brought up this issue, she simply responded, ‘Because I didn’t feel safe.’

This is an important lesson for teens. If you don’t feel good about a certain law, you can do something about it. We shouldn’t be scared or nervous, because we do have a voice in this system. If there is something you think that we, as a state, could do to improve our quality of life, then contact your area representatives and turn your idea into a bill. Young people aren’t only the future; we are also the present.

Megha Bharadwaj, 13, is an eighth grader at Light of Christ Academy in Bismarck, where she is involved in FBLA, SADD, Student Congress, Central Dakota Children’s Choir, speech, Student Council and volleyball. She also likes to sing, play instruments, hang out with friends and read. Megha is the daughter of Dr. Jayaram Bharadwaj and Dr. Savitha Bharadwaj, who are members of Capital Electric Cooperative.

TEEN-2-TEEN: JUNE 2017 - Rural schools have advantages - by Hannah Newman

Hannah Newman

I've lived in rural North Dakota my whole life. I'm able to admire the beautiful North Dakota sunsets every night, I can witness the first steps of a newborn calf, and I have come to love the closeness of rural communities. These are just some of the many advantages of living in a rural area. As North Dakotans, we are blessed with many opportunities that people in other areas of the country do not experience. One aspect of rural living is education. Though some view a rural education as a disadvantage, the positives far outweigh the negatives.

My education has been extremely influenced by my rural, small school. From a young age, my class sizes have been small and intimate. The small class size created a more personal learning environment, and I received a lot of one-on-one help from my educators. When faced with learning difficulties, I was able to turn to my teachers and get immediate help. Rural students and teachers form a bond similar to a family.

When talking about rural schools, many point out the potential lack of course options, and I have faced this problem. But with modern technology, this is no longer a problem.

We now have online courses and ITV (interactive TV) classes attainable to us. The class options available through ITV and online are unlimited. For example, I was able to take a dual-credit sign language class last year through ITV, which provided me with a foreign language credit along with college experience. Online and interactive TV classes provide us with a variety of classes, ranging from advanced language courses to intermediate English classes. In the coming school year, my school will be offering a health and medical careers class, a sports injury and prevention class, along with college-level algebra and speech.

Rural education may be seen as something negative, but that is not the case. When you take a step back, there are many positive aspects that influence our education. I wouldn't change a single thing about my upbringing.

Hannah Newman, 17, is a junior at South Prairie High School, where she is involved in the newspaper and yearbook committee. She enjoys reading a good book, being with friends and family, and participating in church events. She loves movie theater popcorn and long walks on the beach, but who doesn't? YOUTH
TOUR HELPS
STUDENT
ASPIRE by Eva
Reich

“I say to you today, my friends, that in spite of the difficulties and frustrations at the moment, I still have a dream.” Martin Luther King Jr. said those words on Aug. 28, 1963, standing on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial looking across the reflecting pool as if looking toward the future. As I stood in that exact same spot looking across the reflecting pool toward the Washington Monument, I couldn’t help but to reflect and think of my own dreams, and the dreams of the other 1,900

Eva Reich

students on the 2017 Electric Cooperative Youth Tour to Washington, D.C.

All of us high school juniors and seniors stand on the cusp of our dreams with our electric cooperatives standing right behind us, supporting us. We were all given this amazing opportunity to travel to our nation’s capital for a trip of a lifetime.

Washington, D.C., is not only the political center and capital of our great nation, but it is also a national treasure that depicts and encompasses so much of our nation’s history. I believe it is imperative for every American to visit in their lifetime. And with the sponsorship of our electric cooperatives, we were able to do just that.

While on the Youth Tour, I was selected to be the Youth Leadership Council (YLC) representative for North Dakota.

This great honor allowed me to take another trip back to Washington, D.C., where 43 young leaders from other states and I came together to build our leadership skills.

But we also built a family. I will always cherish the friendships and connections I have made through Youth Tour and YLC.

I wasn’t expecting the Youth Tour and YLC to have the colossal impact on me that it inevitably did. It strengthened my confidence as a leader and taught me how to work with other people to form a cohesive team.

The Youth Tour not only inspired me to dream, but to make my dreams a reality. I will be forever grateful for the life lessons and experience of Youth Tour and YLC. And I know that in spite of the difficulties I may face in my future, I will never stop reaching for my dreams.

Eva Reich, 17, is a senior home-schooled student who plays basketball and volleyball. She enjoys playing instruments (violin, viola, piano and ukulele), dancing, singing, acting and spending time with friends and family. She is the daughter of the late Alvin Reich and Rebecca Reich. Her family is served by Dakota Valley Electric Cooperative.

Life hacks for teens - By Claire Weltz

Have you ever been in a pinch and needed a flamethrower?

Did you use ordinary items from your home to construct it? Yeah, me neither. Some life hacks.

Life hacks are simple tricks that improve the quality of life, or shortcuts to increase efficiency. You can find them all over the internet, although most seem far-fetched. But I'm easily drawn to the bright, shiny Facebook videos demonstrating life hacks. The assortment of unrelated items that the creators somehow combine into a useful tool pull me in like a moth to a candle.

Claire Weltz

After all, if watching a three-minute video can save me time, I'm all about it!

Life hacks are so popular because they make things easier with minimal effort. To save you, dear reader, some time, I have compiled a short list of some simple hacks.

- Keep pizza or other takeout food warm on the drive home by turning on the seat heater. Looks like those heaters aren't only for the frigid winters of North Dakota!
- I always need to take at least three of those tiny, paper cups from a fast food restaurant to have enough ketchup for my fries. To save the environment and a trip or two back to your table, pull on the folds of the cups. This expands the cup, letting you fill it two to three times fuller.

• Sipped your coffee before letting it cool down? Burnt your tongue on a bowl of grandma’s soup that you couldn’t wait to eat? Put sugar on your tongue for a few seconds, and the pain will fade quickly.

• Chew gum while you study. Then, on test day, chew the same flavor. This will help you recall the information you studied.

• All natives of the great north know to keep a winter survival kit in their car. A sturdy shovel, matches, hats, gloves and flashlights are all essentials, but have you considered kitty litter? If you get stuck in the snow and ice, dump some underneath your tires. The litter is gritty and will give your vehicle’s tires something to grip.

TEEN-2-TEEN: MAY 2018

Disability. It’s an umbrella term that covers a wide range of medically diagnosed differences, both physical and mental. People with disabilities are part of the largest minority group in the United States, and they face daily discrimination. But as Maya Angelou said, “We are more alike, my friends, than we are unlike.”

My 12-year-old sister, who loves singing along to “Frozen,” watching home videos, and making people laugh, has arthrogryposis multiplex congenita and Down syndrome. Through her, I have seen the joys and struggles of living with disabilities. I’ve learned that acceptance for people with disabilities starts with our individual perceptions. We need to understand that everyone has dreams, opinions and emotions, whether he or she has a diagnosis or not.

I appreciate when people make a conscious effort, when encountering my sister, to address her as they would any other 12 – year - old, even though she can't walk and uses sign language to communicate. An accepting, respectful society should be the standard we are striving to reach.

As my sister grows older, I know she will encounter disability discrimination. Accessibility is an issue for many people. There is a lack of wheelchair ramps, accessible signage and basic training. It's also difficult for many people with disabilities to find employment, even when they are perfectly capable of performing job duties. It all comes back to society's mindset. We need to accept and value those with disabilities, and I believe this starts with today's youth.

In the past months and years, it has become clear that my generation wants change and is willing to do the work to see our ideas to completion. To eradicate prejudice, we need to make acceptance the norm. It's time to stop using slang words that belittle those with disabilities. Instead, we should use language that shows respect. We also need to make a greater effort to include our disabled peers in conversations and activities.

And really, taking that first small step is easier than you think. My sister will gladly share a smile and a friendly wave with anyone she meets.

Kamryn Hellman, 18, is a senior at St. Mary's Central High School, where she is involved in speech, newspaper, dance, Forma Veritas and Assistant Chaplains. Immigration from a teen's viewpoint - By Abbygail Linker Imagine you are an immigrant. You and your family have always been poor. You slave away almost every single day, saving pennies to go to the promised land, America. You finally obtain all the necessary documents. When you get to the land you've heard so much about, people constantly ask if you are illegal, saying you should go back to your own country. This is the tone set in America for immigration.

Immigration is a complicated and controversial topic. Some people are illegal, but does that mean no one should be able to start over in a new country? What is the solution?

My solution is to increase border security. Put checkpoints across the whole border, and have guards strategically placed along the entire border. Have more extensive background checks.

We also need to improve on how the majority of Americans view immigrants. In 2016, more than 43 - million immigrants moved to the United States. That is almost 14 percent of the American population, and the numbers are still rising. Immigrants who are legal should be treated as Americans, because they are. I believe that the points I have mentioned will help get rid of all the stigma around immigration.

Opposite to that, the direction America is going regarding immigration is not a good one. Banning legal immigrants from specific countries is not only morally wrong but makes the president and all of his supporters seem racist. Building a wall along our borders might be seen as an act of hostility, not to mention that it is going to cost millions of dollars. It will also tear apart animal habitats and eco systems. I feel that the intention of these actions is good, and in no way am I trying to discredit the president, but I truly believe that this is a step in the wrong direction for immigration in America.

Our country was founded by immigrants. Thomas Jefferson once famously said, “All men are created equal.” That includes legal immigrants, who are not just foreigners, but people. People who are just like you and me.

KAYAKING NORTH DAKOTA WATERS

COURTESY PHOTO

Paddle On hosts instructor-led yoga and fitness classes on the water with paddle boards at Harmon Lake, Mandan.

Kayak rentals await by Debi Nelson

As a canoeist, I’ve viewed North Dakota’s spectacular shorelines, sunrises, sunsets and amazing waterfowl from a canoe. Last spring, I started thinking about quieter travel on the lake with a kayak – hearing only the noise of my paddle breaking the water and my breathing and not the noise of another person in the canoe. However, I also knew there was a big drawback to the idea of paddling a kayak. I would be the only one providing the power needed for movement. To be honest, I am not an active paddler in our canoe and I am never the “back person” who determines the direction!

Another drawback of a new kayak was the cost. However, after helping a friend by photographing a family reunion, I found a gently used 8-foot kayak and paddle leaning next to our cabin. Now I was out of excuses! I did some research on kayaks by watching many YouTube videos and talking to people who kayak.

For my first time, I chose a day with no wind. With some apprehension and adult supervision, I took the kayak down to the lakeshore.

I tied a rope to the front of the kayak and gave my husband the other end, in case I couldn't make it back on my own. I carefully stepped into the kayak from shore. With a gentle push, I became buoyant! In the kayak, I sat lower in the water than a canoe. I liked this, and the kayak seemed more stable than the canoe. I chose not to bring my camera or phone in case I tipped. However, there was room for those items on the bottom of the kayak or in the small compartment in the back.

My goal for the first adventure was just to maneuver backward and forward and become comfortable as the sole person paddling and maneuvering. It was difficult to look around as I focused on the single, long paddle I held crosswise. I dipped the right blade in the water, then pulled back, keeping my hands and the paddle level. Then I dipped the left blade in the water. It looked a lot more fluid in the videos or when other people kayak! I tended to zigzag instead of moving straight ahead.

Once I became more comfortable, I was OK with having my husband let go of the rope, so I could paddle further into the bay. The geese, loons, ducks and turtles allowed me to get closer. Many times, I stopped paddling and just let the kayak drift. Even with minimal wind, the kayak slowly turned 180 degrees, giving me a panoramic view. Eventually, I was able to relax, look up at the clouds lazily floating by and focus on details of the shoreline. The quiet solitude was exhilarating, except when a little spider crawled onto my hand. It was tricky to shake it loose while hanging onto the paddle and not tip!

Kayaking is another great way to relax and enjoy the beautiful North Dakota lakes and rivers. There are several kayaking groups around the state and I plan to join my friends kayaking this summer and expand my horizons!

TEEN-2-TEEN: JANUARY 2019 - By Amelie Johnson

Winston Churchill said, “We make a living by what we get. We make a life by what we give.” No matter how young you are, you can make a difference in someone’s life by what you give, whether it’s time, money or gifts.

Community involvement is important as we are able to help others with the blessings we have.

Amelie Johnson

A few years ago, after noticing that many students suffered from lack of adequate clothing, a boy my age started a clothing drive to distribute clothing to the public schools in Bismarck. This boy, now a teenager, is making a huge difference in the lives of students, living proof that young people can impact the lives of those around them.

Another way to help is by donating money to the public schools. Many public schools feed students who cannot afford food, but the school system incurs expenses because of the students’ debts. Holding a bake sale or other fundraiser and donating the money to reduce the debt to the school system is an enormous help and will impact the lives of those students for the better.

Annually, my youth group serves children who are cared for by Charles Hall Youth Services in Bismarck, which is an organization that cares for children who do not have a safe home in which to live. We create cozy tie blankets for the children, and even though we do not know the names of these children, we know that having a warm, soft blanket is a comfort to them.

These are only a few of the many ways you can be involved in your community. You can collect food for food pantries, serve at a soup kitchen, volunteer at a nursing home, or serve at your local church. Additionally, you can help others in simple but meaningful ways by babysitting free of charge for a family in need, baking treats for neighbors, assisting neighbors with yard work or giving a friendly smile.

Teenagers who desire to make a difference can accomplish amazing things; I have seen it happen. Being involved in your community could impact someone's life in great ways, even if it's something as simple as raking their leaves.

TEEN-2-TEEN: APRIL 2019

ME, START MY OWN BUSINESS?

By Sylvie Winje

Seventeen – year - old Fred DeLuca started a small sandwich business, hoping to defray the cost of college. Happily, his business was successful, and he raised more than enough money for his education. Just like DeLuca, teens should consider starting their own business to earn money, learn responsibility and grow communication skills.

First, you can earn and learn how to manage your money. My sister, Emma, and I started a business playing piano at nursing homes and have earned more than $2,000 so far!

Sylvie Winje

Doing so helped me associate the true value of a dollar with the amount of work required. When earning your own money, you are suddenly much more careful in how you spend it. Perhaps the money you earn can be invested back into your business or saved for the future!

Secondly, starting your own business helps you to become more responsible. For example, Thomas Edison started his own business as a teenager, printing and selling newspapers to people who rode the train. When Emma and I perform at nursing homes, we must be on time, look presentable, talk to adults, have a plan, and most importantly, provide a good performance!

Finally, you will grow your communication skills. Creating a business requires you to speak with customers, suppliers and others. You also learn to write clear emails and manage logistics. As a young person, it forces you to have a certain level of maturity. To be honest, it is not easy to communicate with adults, even if they are 95 years old! I have learned so much through our nursing home business about communication, and you can, too.

You might be wondering how to get started. Begin by making a list of your interests (music, art, technology, nannying, being outdoors), talk to your parents about business ideas that surround those interests, and then learn more about the process. Remember Fred DeLuca?

That successful business he started was Subway! Now he makes billions of dollars per year and it all began when he was just 17 - years - old. That could be you, but you must get started first!

TEEN-2-TEEN: JULY 2018

Adults need lessons on social media, too –
By Aubrey Roemmich*

We live in a world that largely depends on the internet. We connect with friends and family on a daily basis using all sorts of apps. We get our latest news updates from various forms of online media. In this ever-changing world of technology, our parents and teachers have been working to make sure their children are safe on the internet.

As a junior in high school, I’ve had my fair share of “safe use of social media” talks.

Aubrey Roemmich

This is especially true when looking at social media platforms like Facebook. While it's a useful tool, it also becomes a breeding ground for fake identities, fake news and less-than-intelligent choices. Yet, it's not only teenagers who can suffer from poor posting skills.

Ever since elementary school, it has been drilled into our heads what not to do on the internet. But what happens to adults who didn't grow up using Facebook?

It's my observation that the adults in our lives are making the simple, yet dramatic Facebook mistakes. Everything from sharing obvious fake articles to accidentally posting their entire camera roll, I've noticed the adults having these mishaps and it's no surprise that they do.

Grandma no longer attends school, so who's teaching her how to safely manage her Facebook account? Many times, this responsibility falls on children or grandchildren, but they aren't always reliable.

To create a truly safe internet, simple talks that many students hear every year should be brought into all workplaces, nursing homes or anywhere where they can reach a large amount of people. These seminars should include basic skills like creating a strong password, learning to check if an article is credible and to never answer messages that claim you won the lottery.

This one change could radically improve how people use social media, by just helping them make the smartest decisions. After all, the internet isn't slowing down, so why should we?

Aubrey Roemmich, 16, is a junior at St. Mary's Central High School, where she is involved in Student Council, Future Business Leaders of America and speech. She enjoys reading and writing. TEEN-2-TEEN: MAY 2017

Unplug and get transported with board games By Aubrey Roemmich

Coming here soon.

- - - - - < ^ ~ , , ~ ^ > - - - - -

Okay. I asked Grace when she thought she had passed over to her age of accountability. Grace told me she didn't know anything about passing over to her age of accountability.

“Some, no, many people I know about are to what I and a few others are known as ‘Sunday Punch Card Christians’ as they are people who never miss a Sunday in Church but ask them about how many “Promises” God has given to all of God’s true Christians, HIS true son’s and true daughters and we get back a lot of wrong and many different answers and a lot back from them, I don't know.

“We ask them, what is the age of their age of accountability and we get back a lot of different answers. That age of accountability is from about age 14 or age 15 up to age 22 and some, a few up at age 23. That is the age when they (him or her) take responsibility for all their words and actions, that are from then on are really recorded in their own personal Heavenly book on their life and will be used for their judgement.

“Their Heavenly book is for their own personal record for God’s soon coming real judgement on them. A person must answer to God for every word and every action in their life after they cross that line for his or her age line of their accountability. When your sins are forgiven - those sins are removed from your book. But! Not for any generational sins, we each must ask for those sins to be forgiven separately. But. We are still flesh and many of our words slip out sometimes, is why we should repent often.

Remember, satan is also keeping a record on YOU – to push your buttons, badly.

“For the gifts are really anointed from God to all types of HIS true people. We get back anything from maybe about 30 up to 5,000 gifts. I only have a few minutes here, so I can only touch on a small part of only some of the over 7,000 gifts really anointed to all types of HIS true people. HIS people from those true Christians also get blessings for them and those are to be given out to those other people by and from God through us.

Understand it is NOT every Sunday going to Church Christians but only HIS gifts go to HIS true Christians, HIS children, HIS true children, God’s real people, HIS true men and HIS true women. Going to church every Sunday makes a person a Christian just like sitting in a garage every Sunday afternoon makes a person a car. Did you or are you going to make your decision to be baptized or was it your mom or dad?” I give her another slip of paper, that said:

The many today Church Christians Who Will Hear said, "I never knew you"

WE CALL OUR SELF A CHRISTIAN, but do we know for a fact that we will be saved when you die? Jesus says many won't because they are false believers. Imagine the shock people go into when they find out they have cancer and even worse that the insurance they thought they had is not actually valid and will not take care of their medical bills. How much more the terror of those who think for sure that they are Christians and that they will be saved when they die, only to hear, "I never knew you."

In 2 Corinthians 15:3, Paul pleads with people who call themselves "Christians" to examine their faith and to test themselves to see whether the Holy Spirit of Christ is really living in them.

I have been praying for God to help me to get people to take this seriously. There is no doubt in the minds of God fearing preachers and true men and true women of God, that the majority of people sitting in churches in America will not make it to even stay in heaven. In answer to my prayer, I received an e-mail from a lady in Australia who saw my story "TRUSTING GOD IN THE STORM".

- - ----- < ^ ~ , , ~ ^ > ----- - -

She told me the frightening account of dying in a car accident when she was 21 - years - old. She had loved God and prayed to him every day, but when she died, she heard Jesus tell her, "You cannot come in, I do not know you... go back and find me." I have no doubt, that God wants that warning to be heard by many others, not just her. God gave her a miraculous second chance, but most will be not be so fortunate. DO YOU KNOW FOR A FACT THAT YOU HAVE BEEN BORN AGAIN?

pandemic and settle on a new island as I fight over resources. I can do all of that without electricity, and without any game console or computer. In this day and age of technology, it is helpful to unplug for an hour. All I need to have a great time is a board game.

Board games have a long history dating back to 5000 B.C., and they are not only meant for kids. Many adults play them, too. With an increase of board game purchases, it is no surprise that there is a growing number of board game cafés popping up. These unique businesses allow their customers to get food, and leisurely take a game off their shelves and play.

Some of the most popular games on the market right now include “Pandemic,” “Settlers of Catan” and “Ticket to Ride.” There are dice and card games like “Apples to Apples,” and fast - paced games like “SUSHI GO!” Board games are dual-purpose; they can be fun and educational.

They teach you strategy, develop your problem - solving skills and grow your social circle. I can also learn culture and fragments of weird subjects. An example would be the Scoville heat scale from the game “Scoville.”

In the game, you breed peppers to eventually make the hottest pepper.

Whenever I play games, I like a friendly competition. Having too much aggression makes a game not as fun to play. When my family and I play games, it is always fun to talk as I conquer their armies. Even though it is hard to get my friends together, when we do, it is a blast.

A few months back, my friends and I stayed up until 8 a.m. playing multiple board games and joking and laughing. Of course, we had caffeine and other snacks to prevent us from sleeping.

I like to play games because they transport me into that setting. It’s similar to the feeling some people get when they read a good book.

With so many board games to choose from, the only way to find your favorite is to play.

How to Get Kids to Pray

Jackie and Bobby tell us what has worked for them when it comes to praying with their four-year-old, two-year-old, and nine-month-old. They don't claim to be experts in this area, but here are some things they say help:

1. Pray on your own. For Kids “Monkey see monkey do. All the monkeys are staring at you.” (The monkeys being the kids of course.)
2. Set low expectations with kids under seven and be understanding when they don't cooperate. Children under the age of reason haven't developed the reasoning part of their brain yet. Understand that and adapt accordingly.
3. Teach children that we're always praying. Use every day experiences, like the beauty of nature, to demonstrate God's love.
4. Teach them different forms of prayer and see what works. If they like singing, sing your prayers with them. If they like pictures, use picture books while you pray with them.

If you have any other tips you'd like to share, mention them in the comments. Hopefully this video encourages you not to give up when praying with your kids gets tough.

You will never speak bad words again after watching this!

The Power YOUR Words are HUGE

Words are not simply sounds caused by air passing through our larynx. Words have real power. God spoke the world into being by the power of HIS words (Hebrews 11:3), and we are in HIS image in part because of the power we have with words. Words do more than convey information. The power of our words can actually destroy one's spirit, even stir up hatred and violence. They not only exacerbate wounds but inflict them directly.

Of all the creatures on this planet, only man has the ability to communicate through the spoken word. The power to use words is a unique and powerful gift from God.

Prayer For Eyes - Healing Prayer For Your Eyes

Welcome To The Prayer For Your Eyes.

Heavenly Father, we gather together here online and come into agreement in the wonderful and powerful name of Jesus.

Where two or more are gathered there YOU shall surely be and anything we agree upon as touching YOU will surely do.

I lift up those watching this video and we come into agreement and lift up their eyes.

Lord, thank YOU for sending YOUR Word to heal the eyes of those listening now and delivering them from all their destructions.

Jesus paid it all for them.

Jesus is the Word Who became flesh and dwelt among us.

Jesus bore their pains and carried their sickness.

HE was pierced through for their transgressions and crushed for their iniquities.

The chastisement of their well-being was upon HIM and by HIS stripes they were healed...

We declare that they will think on YOUR Word Father and meditate on who they are in Jesus.

We bind your peace around the listener's soul now in Jesus Name.

We come boldly to YOUR throne of grace and present those listening before you for deliverance.

I stand in the gap and I am praying now knowing that the Holy Spirit within me takes hold together with those listening against the evils that would attempt to hold them in bondage.

We break the power of the enemy in their life right now.

In the Name of Jesus, we declare that the traps and plans of the enemy are exposed, useless and void, and come to nothing.

Lord, help those listening to hold up their shield of faith and quench every fiery dart of the adversary that would come against them to say that healing is not for them.

In agreement, we ask that YOUR plans and calling for the listener would come to pass. We bind their entire being - spirit, soul, and body - to what YOU desire for their life.

We declare that they are willing and obedient to follow YOU as surely YOU will lead them safely.

The Mind of Christ is theirs and we bind their thoughts, feelings and the intent of their heart to You.

Every negative and ungodly attitude, addiction, idea, desire, habit, behavior, and belief, we lift up to YOU and loose it from binding them any longer in Jesus Name.

We loose any negative strongholds in their life and break the power of them in the listener's life in Jesus Name...

The listener does YOUR will.

They will glorify YOU in their spirit, soul, and body.

Thank You Father that Jesus was manifested that HE might destroy the works of the devil.

The devil's works are destroyed in the listener's life in the name of Jesus.

The listener walks in the Kingdom of God which is righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit!

Praise the Lord!

Thank You that those listening will prosper and be in health, even as their soul prospers.

Thank You that healing is flowing within their eyes right now in Jesus Name.

We believe we receive and thank YOU, in the wonderful Name of Jesus.

Hallelujah! Amen.

Todd White - Healing on the streets of Jerusalem (ISRAEL Part 9)

Todd was a drug addict and atheist for 22 years — when in 2004 — he was radically set free!

Todd believes that redemption and righteousness are the foundational keys for living life as a new creation in Christ. Todd's foremost desire is to see the Holy Spirit flowing through believers everywhere that they go – at work, school, grocery stores, malls, gas stations, and more.

Todd's true joy is being able to reproduce a 24/7 kingdom lifestyle in every believer. His heart is to activate people in the simplicity of who they really are and confront the barriers that hold them back from being who God created them to be. No one is excluded.

Money and Spirituality (Is it Right to Charge Money for Spiritual or Healing Services)

Published on Feb 23, 2013 => Ask Teal Website - <http://www.askteal.com>

This video does not mean to discourage philanthropy or generosity. It is designed to help people in the spiritual and healing field to align with receiving money for their trade. It is designed to discourage people in these fields from confusing philanthropy and generosity with self-sacrifice.

The idea that spirituality and money can't co-exist and that there is something ethically wrong with turning spirituality into a business is a sacred idea to many of us. We take it as so much of a truth; that we are unwilling to question it fully.

In actuality, assigning value to your offering on a spiritual level is no different than assigning a value to an item that is totally unrelated to spirituality.

Because the item is no less spiritual than your spiritual work is. Physical, material things are not separate from source energy. They are not separate from spirit. They are extensions of spirit. What does this mean?

Money too is an extension of spirit; so it is a misunderstanding to say that money and spirituality is a contradiction.

Most of us who are dedicated to spirituality pour our own mind, heart soul, money and time into spiritual practice.

We dedicate our lives to it in the same way that any other professional pours their existence into their trade. And so the question to ask yourself is: Do you value your dedication and your skills?

Do you think highly enough of yourself or what you have to offer (your expertise) that it is conceivable that what you know could benefit and therefore be valuable to someone else?

Also, there is also a little known fact... if you offer things for free; people doubt the value of whatever it is that you are offering. Charging money for things actually psychologically causes people to value it and take it seriously.

The most important thing is that we must stay in alignment without own sense of integrity. We cannot draw absolutes about what is or isn't right, what is or isn't in alignment because right and wrong are human concepts that do not exist from source's perspective. And, our alignment is always based on our perspectives and where we currently are vibrationally, and that is always different from person to person.

An important question to ask yourself is: Do you want to dedicate your life to spiritual practice and to providing others with the fruits of that dedication?

Or do you want to work at a job that you do not feel passion for, just because you have been told and you have been telling yourself that it is more ethical?

Is it really more ethical to make money doing something you don't actually want to do like working at MacDonald's than it is to involve money in your spiritual practice?

The bottom line is: You should be doing the job that you would be doing

- a. If you never got paid a cent for it and
- b. If you were so wealthy that you didn't need to get paid for it.

But there is nothing wrong with earning an income to support your day-to-day life and the lives of those who depend on you while doing that thing that you love the most.

Receiving money for what you love to do is just a bonus. A bonus, which in today's society is not just beneficial, it is necessary.

How to make Money on Youtube

Published on Dec 29, 2012 => "Can you make money off Youtube?"

"How to make money on Youtube?"

Yes, by monetizing your videos via Google AdSense and by being a Youtube partner you can generate income by making videos.

By utilizing the monetization feature that Youtube offers to its partners (you), it enables you to make a small to medium amount of income. Approximate range is $100.00 monthly if your viewers click an Ad on one of your videos.

To get started set up a Youtube account with a username you will like in the future if you plan on becoming big and putting your username on T-shirts, hats, clothing, etc.

Next set up a Google AdSense account and link it to your Youtube account.

Google Adsense is a program where advertisers put their product or business ads into a pool of ads from a variety of advertisers ranging from clothing to sports, cosmetics to healthcare, and cars to business services. Those ads are then specifically placed in or on videos relevant to the product or business on videos you made or genre of videos you have watched in the past via cookies.

Make videos that are interesting and professional. None of that blurry webcam, bad lighting and distorted voice material. Leave out logos and popular music unless you are performing product placement or have written permission to use that song for "commercial purposes".

Keep your videos consistent to retain subscribers and viewers, build an audience to make more money.

This is also a good way for teens and younger people to earn money on their own.

A Youtube program reviews your video for any logos and music you are using or have in the background. Sometimes this program may misread something you have that's totally original and remove the monetized videos "monetise" feature, which you will have to contact the help center for assistance. Sometimes actual people review your videos.

Disclaimer I am not encouraging or discouraging you from clicking on an Ad on any Youtubers videos or Blogs for that matter*

Internet – How to make money online

Uploaded on Jan 6, 2011 => There is many ways to make money online but I want to at least write about an easy method, and since most people want fast I will try to make a post on Fast Cash Online.

What We Can't Do

Since the nature of this post is fast cash, it would take a tremendous amount of time to make a product or actually even make something that could bring in good money; we really don't have the time to do it at all.

We also can't ask friends for help since they will think we are stupid, and what they could call a money grabber.

We also can't use Google Ad words to promote because we don't want to startup using money, we want $0 investment to start with because this would be best, and as most people, can't afford to make a mistake, or don't have a credit card or a way to actually get the money into Google ad words.

What We Will do!

Now what we will do is as simple as can be.

First of all we need to think of something that people are passionate about, or interested in. I mean something they would die for, totally need or maybe just love. Take a pen and a bit of paper and brainstorm on ideas, as many as you can that would fit this subject.

And I'd recommend things that you can find online, and you can market something to these people (a product or something), and these are the types of people who are willing to spend cash on whatever you have to sell.

Secondly of course

We need to check on these subjects a little research and find out what they are willing to buy, or need to buy, or are going crazy looking to buy something that they need.

Lastly what are you going to give?

Last of all after all that taking notes you need to research affiliate programs that have these types of products, clickbank usually has all health related, weight loss related, and other type things like insomnia.

Of course I just give away what types of target audience you should be targeting, these types of people would do anything to cure, or get rid of their mental health's or people dying to lose a little flab.

I myself have been in this state because I suffered from Panic Disorder and I know how it feels

Now that we have the target market.

Since we are going to be making cash fast, we only have time to fully check up on one market.

You can also go and check out related forums like "heart attack forums" in Google, or Blobs or "Panic disorder + anxiety" or "insomnia forums" or Blobs things like this.

You can also check Google groups, yahoo groups and Yahoo answers, these types of things work also.

The best examples of the people you are trying to target would be. * Gamblers in debt * People whose home is about to be foreclosed * People about to go out of business * Students who need money to enroll * People who want to get rich quick * Parents with children needing legal help * Insurance agents, doctors, therapists, who have failed or fear failing there exams * Women who cannot get pregnant * Women scared of husbands having affairs * Men who can't get women at all * People with illnesses who can't get better and running out of time * People who have work drug tests coming up soon.

You can see how desperate these people will be and are willing to spend a little cash on products that will help them, even a forum PM, to these people will mostly convert if you put it friendly and recommend it.

So all you have to do mainly is research, see what they want. If you spent say about 30 mins reading a niche related forum and look to see and note down what their problems are, what they need, you'll find a winner every time.

Now also once you have a customer and they get back to you saying thanks and you see that they purchased it take note of the buyer, email info, or even msn messenger info, because in a month I bet they would buy a similar product.

I'll make this guide a lot better, it's time for me to relax and have a beer.

Hope I made sense.

Todd White - You Can't Do This in Your Own Strength

Todd was a drug addict and atheist for 22 years — when in 2004 — he was radically set free! Todd believes that redemption and righteousness are the foundational keys for living life as a new creation in Christ. Todd's foremost desire is to see the Holy Spirit flowing through true God and Jesus believers everywhere that they go – at work, school, grocery stores, malls, gas stations, and more. Todd's true joy is being able to reproduce a 24/7 kingdom lifestyle in every believer. His heart is to activate people in the simplicity of who they really are and confront the barriers that hold them back from being who God created them to be. No one is excluded!

The Power of Praying Children - R2 Testimony - Richy Clark

My family recently experienced a great miraculous turn-around for our son Richy. (R2) There is a lot to his story, but one great facet was all of the children praying for his life and destiny. Richy still needs more healing, but we are so thankful for the turn of events, and obvious miracle that has taken place, extending his life! Special thanks to Lenny Laguardia for mobilizing our children to pray.

Not only is this a testimony of children praying, but the church being the church. We were so cared for by the body of Christ locally and abroad during this trial! We are blessed! <http://www.facebook.com/prayingforRic...>

8 Keys to Knowing God’s Will For Your Life

When I was a young man, I seemed to continually wrestle with knowing God’s will for my life. I wanted more than anything to follow HIS plan. Interestingly, now that I’m “old” (currently 47 years old), I still wrestle with doing HIS will in my life. I have come to learn that this is not just something that a young person does early in life; it is a lifelong pursuit in order to stay in the exact center of HIS plan and to trust in it!

So, then, how can we know God’s plan for our lives?

Over the past twenty-five years that I have been in ministry, I have discovered eight vital keys to knowing God’s will and plan for your life. Here they are:

- 1) Walk with God.

For starters, if you are interested in knowing God’s plan for your life, then you must learn to walk with God. You need to develop a relationship with HIM. Christianity is all about relationship rather than just religion.

And so, you must cultivate your relationship with God. You must seek to know HIM and not just seek to know about HIM.

You will cultivate that relationship best by spending time in HIS Word, taking time for prayer, and taking every opportunity you can to be involved in church and small group Bible study opportunities. When you seek these disciplines in your life, God will begin the first steps to revealing HIS plan to you. Proverbs 3:5 - 6

⁵ Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; ⁶ In all your ways acknowledge HIM, and HE shall direct your paths.

2) Surrender your will to God's.

Many times, when we say we are seeking God's will, what we are really wanting to say to God is this: "OK, God, here's what I'm planning to do. Now I need you to rubber stamp this, all right?" I must tell you that this is not really effective in finding HIS true will.

Before God will begin to reveal HIS will to you, you must be committed to doing whatever it is that HE desires for you to do. God will likely be slow to show you HIS plan if HE knows you will likely not do that plan anyway. Romans 12:1 - 2

¹ I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, Holy, acceptable to God, which is your reasonable service. ² And do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, that you may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God.

Jesus was willing to die for us, so shouldn't we be willing to live for HIM?

When we surrender to HIM, that is when HE really begins to direct our steps.

3) Obey what you already know to be God's Will.

Many people seem to want to know what God's plan is for their lives, but they overlook the fact that 98% of HIS will is already delineated carefully through HIS Word. God is very clear about many, many aspects of HIS will. For instance, it is clearly HIS plan that we abstain from sexual immorality (1 Thessalonians 4:3).

If we do not obey the things that God has shown us clearly to be HIS will, why would we think HE would reveal any further information regarding HIS plan for our lives?

Obedience is an important first step.

4) Seek Godly input.

One key component to finding God's will is to seek the input of godly advisors in your life. If you don't currently have 3 to 4 Godly mentors, then I would highly recommend that you seek them out right away.

Think of it this way: you should understand that you are basically a composite of the five people you spend the most time with. So, then, it is vital that you choose those three to five people well.

If you choose to surround yourself with godly advisors, they will be instrumental in helping you discern God's plan for your life. But if you surround yourself with people who are far from God, your hope of finding HIS best for your life will be greatly diminished. Proverbs 11:14

Where there is no counsel, the people fall; but in the multitude of counselors there is safety.

The church is designed to help you greatly with this. I would encourage you to be in Church every single time the doors are opened. The more you involve yourself with a community of believers, the greater your chances will be of finding godly men and women who can help you discern God's will.

5) Pay attention to how God has wired you.

God has created you to fulfill a specific role in this world. There is no one else who can achieve completely what God has purposely created you to do.

The Apostle Peter gives us this admonition: 1 Peter 4:10

As each one has received a gift, minister it to one another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God.

God has gifted every one of us to perform a special mission for which we alone were created. How amazing is that? Wow!

So, when you seek to discover God's will for your life, pay attention to how HE has gifted you. HIS plan for you will always be directly related to the gifts that HE has bestowed upon you. The great news is that you will automatically be good at whatever it is that HE has called you to do!

6) Listen to God's Spirit.

I experienced a major turning point in my own prayer life when I learned simply to shut up while I was praying. That may sound odd to you, and it seemed odd to me at first.

You see, I used to do all the talking when I prayed to God. But then, several years ago, I read Bill Hybel's book, "Too Busy Not to Pray". That book completely changed the way I approached God through prayer.

Since reading that book, I have added a significant component to my prayer life: listening. I take time to listen to what God might have to say to me.

Practically, the way I go about this is to bring a notepad with me when I sit down to pray. Then I write at the top of several page things like the following:

- "What is the next step in my career?"
- "What is the next step in my ministry?"
- "What is the next step for my family?"
- "What is the next step for my marriage?"
- "What is the next step in my education?"
- "What is the next step in my finances?"

During my prayer time, I meditate on questions such as the above. Often, God will start flooding my heart with ideas and information regarding one or more of those questions. I write as fast as I can as HE speaks to my heart. What a glorious experience that is to sense HIS Spirit on me, guiding my thoughts and words.

Through experiences like this, HE has shown me many times with great clarity what HIS will is for my life. I long for those experiences when HE speaks to me like that. Those times are truly life changing. John 10:27

My sheep hear MY voice, and I know them, and they follow ME. (I do. Do you?)

27) Listen to your heart.

In addition to listening to the Spirit, I also recommend listening to your heart. To understand my point here, consider the following passage: Psalms 37:4 - 5

⁴ Delight yourself also in the LORD, and HE shall give you the desires of your heart. ⁵ Commit your way to the LORD, trust also in HIM, and HE shall bring it to pass. (NKJV)

I love this passage, because it shows me that, when I am walking with the Lord, HE will actually let me do many really cool things that I actually love to do! When you are close to HIM, HE actually begins to shape your desires so that you desire the things that HE has already called you to do.

So then, HIS plan actually becomes a super-exciting adventure. I always have the most fun in life when I am doing God's will. And that is because HE shapes my personal "wanter" to want to do the things for which HE has actually created me.

8) Take a look at your circumstances.

God often clearly demonstrates HIS plan for our lives by lining up circumstances in obvious ways. And HE also shows us what HIS will is NOT for us to do in that same way. It is not HIS will for you to take the job that is not offered to you. If you are 5' 6" tall and weigh 125 lbs., it is not likely that God has created you to play professional football.

Over the years, I have discovered that God is pretty good at opening and closing doors. HE even did that for the Apostle Paul and his enterouge in Acts. Take a look at this passage: Acts 16:6-10

⁶ Now when they had gone through Phrygia and the region of Galatia, they were forbidden by the Holy Spirit to preach the word in Asia.

⁷ After they had come to Mysia, they tried to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit did not permit them.

⁸ So passing by Mysia, they came down to Troas.

⁹ And a vision appeared to Paul in the night. A man of Macedonia stood and pleaded with him, saying, "Come over to Macedonia and help us."

¹⁰ Now after he had seen the vision, immediately we sought to go to Macedonia, concluding that the Lord had called us to preach the gospel to them.

So, even Paul had to face closed doors in his ministry. God often uses closed doors to show us clearly what HE does NOT want us to do.

And HE also uses open doors at times to show us what HE DOES want us to do. Of course, this does not mean that every open door is definitely God’s plan, but it does help to give you some basic direction.

A Closing Thought:

The next time you begin to ponder God’s plan for your life, I would encourage you to mull over the above eight keys. Use these principles to help you to hone in on HIS plan. And when you seek HIS will earnestly, you will find it!

The wonderful benefit to be a New Testament Christian is that God has added a “want to” to the “have to” aspect of HIS commands. The Holy Spirit dwelling within us convicts, prompts, and inspires a desire to follow God wholeheartedly.

Q. You talk a lot about loving the self and a healthy self-concept. Isn't that somewhat selfish or self - centered?

Like most things in life, therein lies the paradox. For example if you were starving, it would be the most important thing in your life and your first priority. Nothing would matter until you were fed; not fame, not money, and not fancy clothing.

As Abraham Maslow states in his hierarchy of needs, if your biological and physiological needs aren't met, nothing else matters. Likewise, if you don't love and accept yourself you will always be searching to fill that big gap and sometimes in unhealthy ways if you're desperate enough e.g. promiscuity, addictions, self-defeating behaviors.

As we have witnessed in the entertainment industry, many successful, wealthy and attractive have led unhappy, sometimes tragic lives because they didn't love themselves in a healthy, accepting manner (Marilyn Monroe, Elvis Presley, Judy Garland).

This, of course, is in contrast to what can be termed as narcissism - a personality disorder, which is both 'unhealthy' and extreme.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. What can I do to get motivated? Lately I've felt no motivation for anything.

Ultimately all motivation must come from within. No one can make you want to do something.

You have to decide what is worthwhile in life. Does wanting to stay healthy motivate you? How about being the best that you can be?

If you don't learn to motivate yourself you will stagnate, become boring and bored, and life will just go downhill from there. Take initiative and start somewhere. Work out, read, and do whatever you can to improve yourself. You'll be surprised how once you start, you will build the desire and motivation to continue.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. What is the best action to take when nothing else works? Where do you run?

Sometimes the actions you take work, and other times they don't, however, running away never helps. First of all, you can't run away from yourself and secondly, the problems are still there => still waiting to be solved.

Facing life, your fears etc. and doing some "critical thinking" is the best approach. The solutions may not always be perfect however, you build courage, problem solving skills and self-confidence in the process.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. I do not like myself and I having been feeling really sorry for myself lately, what can I do?

First of all if you don't like yourself, how can you expect anyone else to like you?

Secondly, feeling sorry for yourself can be a waste of time. Make the decision to start working on self-acceptance and self-confidence.

It will take effort and action on your part but if you make the commitment to improve, you will do it.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. How do I make life worth living again? I'm so depressed and so lonely. It seems I am only surviving minute by minute.

Start with yourself. Make the decision that you won't let it beat you. You have the ability to change your thinking and perspective. Everything is how you choose to see it. No doubt, it's difficult to change your mindset, especially if you're used to one way of looking at things, however, it's necessary. There are many things we all have to be grateful for, such as freedom, opportunities, decent health etc. – etc. Our job is to make the most of it. All the best to you!

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. Lately I've been feeling emotionally numb? What can I do to change that?

There are times when we all feel numb. There could be a variety of reasons for this both physical and emotional. Sometimes we're just drained or worn out.

The best thing to do is ride it out, however in the meantime take care of yourself by eating properly, getting plenty of sleep and exercising every week.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. How can I learn to love, embrace, and accept parts of my physical appearance that other people see (as I think) as ugly and reject?

If you don't love and embrace yourself, you can't really expect anyone else to. If there is something you can do to improve your looks such as lose weight, learn what styles and makeup suit you best, and which of your good features to accentuate, then do so. If there is not, you must learn to accept yourself as you are.

Certainly looks are not the measure of a person. The heart, mind and soul are. Perhaps you've seen the movies or know the stories of 'Beauty and the Beast' or 'Cyrano de Bergerac' and the lessons they offer.

I've known many people who were beautiful at first glance but after they opened their mouths and revealed their personalities they were suddenly somewhat unattractive.

Likewise, I've met seemingly unattractive people, but after I've gotten to know them, they were beautiful to me because they had a good personality and/or were very intelligent and had much to offer.

If you feel you will never be attractive enough (according to some societal standards) then develop other aspects of yourself such as your personality and attractive qualities such as kindness, humor, generosity and intelligence.

Looks aren't everything and as everyone knows, they don't last forever. In fact, not for very long.

Some have thought Barbra Streisand, or Fred Astaire or Liza Minnelli aren't attractive, but they've made the best of their looks and who they are. I, myself find that a person who has character, is fit, yet not conventionally good looking, to be more interesting. It's all in how you see and conduct yourself.

Self-acceptance and self-confidence may take practice but they're worth working on. If you exude self-acceptance and confidence others will accept you as well.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. I just had my worst job interview ever and I feel like a terrible failure and that everything in my life is falling apart. What should I do?

After having had many terrible interviews myself, I know how you must feel. Sometimes it was because I was not well prepared; other times it was bad chemistry and more often than it should be - bad interviewing. Needless to say we all have off days, so to have a bad interview is not so unusual.

My advice is that after you get over your disappointment of how things went, the best thing you can do is learn from it. My guess is you've already learned to be better prepared.

Right now your perception is a bit distorted because things didn't go smoothly. Treat this as a challenge and an opportunity to improve your interviewing skills. Deep down you know how good you really are! Don't let this one incident skew your perspective .

All the best! You will do better next time!

- - ----- < ^ ~ , , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. How do I stop being insecure, fearful and shy? People are afraid to approach me because they think I'm boring, stuck-up or I am anti-social.

I think that you're biggest obstacle is fear. In order to overcome the shyness and inability to approach people you have to put yourself out there. At first it will be unnatural, extremely difficult and go against every fiber of your being; however, in order to prevail you must do it. Start small at first. Say hello to people and smile. Stand straight and act comfortable, even though we know you aren't. Practice beforehand what you could say to people. Learn to visualize possible scenarios.

No matter what, fear or not, you will have to push yourself to get beyond your comfort zone if you want to become more social and friendly with others. Nothing is easy at first. It may not even work out well at the first attempt, but you must keep trying. Commit and make the effort to change.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. I have real problems with controlling my anger. What can I do?

As I'm sure you're aware, we humans are emotional beings. If we are to live mature, productive lives we must learn to manage our emotions, both the positive and negative. If we do not, we risk harming our relationships, being miserable and not accomplishing what we want.

To manage any emotion, anger included, we must exercise self-discipline, critical thinking and common sense. This of course does not happen automatically, it takes practice, practice, practice.

When you get angry, ask yourself these questions (some critical thinking) :

- * Why am I angry?
- * What can I do about it?
- * Will taking action help or hurt me in the long run?
- * What does it accomplish to be or stay angry?

Once you take time to assess your anger, first, it helps you cool down, and secondly, it makes you consider the options. Once you've done that, your anger is put in perspective and you may find yourself no longer angry.

If it is something that has continuously made you angry, you must consider the source and deal with it. This may mean accepting a situation or changing it.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. Why should we accept and help others when there are so many people that take advantage of us and never give anything in return?

Unfortunately there are always those who take advantage of others. It is both unfair and unethical. If you are the person who has tried to help others and they are not grateful and want more, then you are under no obligation to do it.

Helping others is a good thing, but not when they don't try to help themselves. You do not have to cave into their demands, nor do you have to accept anything that is against your better judgment, or your values.

When I talk about 'acceptance', I mean that you should accept that which you cannot change, mostly because you have no choice. If you can change it, then do so.

If you let things you have no control over bother you, then you are harming your peace of mind.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. I think I don't have passion for my job anymore. I just drag myself into work each day. Should I change my job?

Right now you have a job where you're not fulfilled. If you're thinking of quitting or finding another job, make sure you have a nest egg to fall back on, if you quit. It's never a good idea just to leave without anything to fall back on.

These days few of us stay in the same jobs our whole lives. While you're still there, however, make the best of it and learn everything you can to sharpen your skills. This will make you more employable and attractive to other companies. Also, brainstorm what you do and don't want in a job (your priorities). If you leave and don't know what you want, you may find yourself in the same boat, or even worse off.

Here's one of my favorite quotes that says it all, "Failing to prepare is preparing to fail." Plan for finding another more fulfilling job. Look to see what's out there before making the plunge. You may even decide to stay put, well for a time.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. I love to eat and should lose some weight, but I don't know whether it's worth it for me to change my habits and give up food for a thinner body. What should I do?

If this is a question of accepting your body versus losing weight, the answer is that good health should always be your first consideration. If you're not model thin, it's okay! Few of us are or should be. Your health, however, is absolutely worth working at. Everything you do now to take care of yourself will pay off as you get older.

Find a way to balance eating healthily with enjoying your food. There are many tasty, nutritious meals you can cook. Never sacrifice your health for anything!

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. No matter what, I never feel I'm wrong! When I fight with people I always feel as if I am right and they are wrong! Can you please tell me how to see through things because I'm losing friends?

You mention that you always "feel" that you're right. Is that the same as "knowing" that you are?

You must know that no one is always right, no matter how strongly they feel about an issue. It's great to have conviction, but that's not the same as being right.

It's important to think your position through and try and see the issue from another's point of view as well. To only see it from your own point is self-centered and one sided and often, in the end, incorrect.

It's time to stretch yourself and do some critical thinking. Real knowledge comes from being open-minded and willing to explore more than just your own ideas.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

Q. How do I acquire self - validation? Sometimes people criticize me or treat me like I don't matter so I find it hard to have a good opinion of myself. Instead I let their opinions define me. What can I do?

As you are already aware, growing up without a lot of encouragement and validation from parents makes it more difficult to have a healthy self-concept. Without that kind of confirmation, a person is more sensitive to criticism from others, believes he / she doesn't matter, and of course, has a low opinion of themselves.

Without that continuous support it makes it more difficult to have self-confidence in a culture that challenges the psyche at every turn.

More difficult, however, does not mean impossible, so good for you that you are willing to work at it!

That leaves you with the challenge of building yourself up.

Know that it will be an ongoing process and one that requires patience, perseverance and consistently applying yourself. There will be days that you feel it will never happen and days that you want to give up - but don't.

Start by acting like you have self-confidence, even when you don't. It will help keep people from treating you poorly. Like animals, we can sense weakness or vulnerability in others and those less scrupulous of us can take advantage of it.

Know that you are a worthy, valuable person and act accordingly. Use visualization and affirmations techniques to speed up the process of building yourself up. This will help you define yourself rather than let others do it for you.

5 Important Types of Life Skills All Adults Need

What are life skills? People have different views about which life skills are most essential for success. However, what they do agree on is that we all need these skills for life in one form or another to address the issues that occur daily at work, school and home.

These skills have become particularly important in a world that's experiencing. They can help build self-confidence and encourage wise decisions. Consider this list of life skills for adults below and why they're important.

- Resilience: All of us fall occasionally. Resilience involves how well we accept obstacles, learn from our mistakes and recover. Our mistakes often provide the best life lessons – so long as we don't allow them to defeat us.
- Communication: Resolving conflict with other people is essential at home and at work. Communication takes place increasingly by text, email and social media channels. It's important to master these types of written skills. But spoken communication is equally important. That means remembering to look people in the eye and being respectful of other opinions even while clearly expressing your own.
- Mindfulness: We're often so focused on our mental and written to - do lists that we focus too much on the next task instead of addressing the present.

That causes us to spend too much time fretting about what we still need to do. Mindfulness means connecting with your surroundings and the people around you in a more meaningful way. Science shows mindfulness can help you focus more efficiently on the tasks at hand and also has benefits for physical and mental health.

- Collaboration: In grade school, we learned how to play well with others. As adults, we still need to utilize these collaboration skills in our careers. At work, being able to share opinions and team up with others on projects will increase your effectiveness and productivity. In your personal life, it'll lead to more positive relationships.
- Inquisitiveness: Children ask a lot of questions, and that enables them to learn. But some adults stop asking questions occasionally because it takes time, or they fear that someone else will consider them less smart. But inquiry is a sign of intelligence. It shows others that you're thinking about issues and events and that you're open to new ideas. Asking questions helps you develop your mind and discover new skills and interests.

The value of life skills

Strong life skills can help you manage every day and more stressful situations skillfully, leading to career advancement. Improved mindfulness can improve your time management, while effective communication and collaboration skills can help you rally a team around a project.

Inquisitiveness may help you see a problem differently and find solutions that save you or your company time and money – even old problems can require new thinking to solve.

Many companies see these types of life skills as increasingly important for leadership positions in their organizations.

Basic life skills resources available

As you consider what skills you'd like to develop or improve in your life, you'll find many resources available. These can include books, audio courses and online programs. You can approach each of these skills individually or commit to improving all of the areas by working on each one a little bit each day.

One of the most effective ways of figuring out the skills you'd like to gain or change is to ask the people you regularly spend time around. Coworkers, friends or even a mentor at work, for example, can give you objective assessments of the skills you're working on. There are a few helpful ways to approach this.

Schedule a specific time to talk with a coworker instead of asking in passing or stopping them in the hallway; this is more convenient for them, and it also sets aside time for both of you to get more deeply involved in the conversation.

Come prepared with specific questions, too. “What steps do you think I can take to improve my public speaking skills?” will get you a more specific answer than “Do I have good office skills?”

Whichever path you take, improving life skills will create a greater sense of fulfillment in both your life and your career advancement. Take some time to think about which ones are most relevant for you.

Great Ways To Simply Enjoy Your Life More

Live life to the fullest and enjoy every moment. Easier said than done. A few simple practices can improve your ability to enjoy life. Practice each one until it becomes a habit, then move to the next. In no time, you will be filled with enjoyment.

Stop Complaining

Complaining is a waste of time. It allows undesirable thoughts to take over and makes the complainer look negative. Not only does the complainer waste energy, so do the people listening to the complainer. Limit negativity to increase positivity. As soon as a complaint registers, down play it. The complaint is a concern, but in the grand scheme of things, it is no big deal. Not even worth the time and energy to say aloud. Instead, think of a positive aspect of the scenario or change your train of thought. Do not get lost in pondering, there are too many wonderful things to think and speak about.

Be Grateful

Gratitude is a virtue that brings great enjoyment to life. Take time each day to be grateful for life experiences. The comfort of bed, the aroma of coffee, and the fresh air are regular blessings of life. Remember, not everyone has access to small pleasures.

Even more, people do not take the time to fully experience the small pleasures that fill their lives. Do not be one of them. Stop and take the time to be grateful. Begin by writing a gratitude list at the end of each day.

At least ten experiences each day should make the list. Soon, it will be second-hand nature to be grateful for the people and experiences in your life.

Smile Often

Smiling has a positive effect on mood and perceived energy levels. The act of smiling can improve attitude in a matter of seconds. Try it the next time a bad mood comes along to immediately reverse it. Smiles project happiness and confidence by softening other facial features. Not only can smiling improve the mood of surrounding individuals, but it can also be heard. Most people can determine whether the person they are speaking to over the phone is smiling by the tone and rhythm of voice. Enjoy yourself and smile.

Breathe Deeply

Stretch out the diaphragm with deep breathing. Muscular stress, heart rate, and blood pressure can all be reduced in a few deep breaths.

Commonly practiced amongst pregnant women, Lamaze is one form of deep breathing that aids with pain management during the birthing process.

Breathing can help center attention and focus the mind. Shallow breathing is a response to stress and fear. The body has an opposite reaction to deep breathing. Use the 6 – 2 – 6 method: breathe in for a count of 6; hold for 2; and exhale for 6. Reduce stress, enjoy life, and take some time to breathe deeply.

Walk Every Day

Take a walk every day. Enjoy the time alone, the surrounding area, and the ability of the body to move. Daily walks help clear the mind and connect one with nature. Walking provides an opportunity for connecting with friends or family members. Get out of the house or office and get some fresh air. Walking is the most basic of physical activities and contributes to physical and mental health. This exercise can help build cardiorespiratory endurance and is great for lower body joint health. With little risk of injury, walking provides a great opportunity to enjoy life.

Laugh Constantly

People who enjoy their life laugh a lot. Learn to laugh more by finding humor in everyday situations. Even situations that may usually annoy, scare or inflame you. Choose humor over upset, especially when only the reaction to the situation is under your control. Think of the boss who laughs to herself about an absurd complaint or the pet owner who laughs at the unpleasant present that the dog left on the door step. The person who laughs at the idiosyncrasies of family members instead of getting upset. Laughing alone or with others is a great way to enjoy life.

Enjoy Loved Ones Company

Whether they live far or near, enjoying time with loved ones is an easy way to enjoy life more. Surround yourself with people you love and admire. Take time to observe your loved ones like watching your children play, your spouse read, and your family talks to each other. Think about all the things that you enjoy about them. Cherish these moments and remember that they are not permanent. Life is short, so enjoy the people who bring you the most joy in your life.

Meditate Daily

Exercise the mind and feed the soul with meditation. Meditation is not the absence of thought, but rather the focus on the present. Thoughts of the past and future that occur during meditation are supposed to be acknowledged and let go. In other words, meditation is the practice of detachment from the emotions that we usually tie to our thoughts. A great metaphor for the mind during meditation is like a screen at the movies. A waterfall can be projected, but the screen does not get wet. A thought can pass through the mind, but the mind does not have to react. The practice of meditation has led to improved feelings of happiness, lower stress, and increased empathy.

Love A Pet

Pets provide unconditional love. Pet owners are happier people, and they engage with a cute, lovable animal that adores them. Pets live in the moment and are easily entertained. They need to receive love as much as they need to express it.

If you do not have one, rescue one. You may find yourself asking “Who rescued who?” Although pet care takes time and energy, the enjoyment gained is immeasurable. Routine time with your pet is an easy way to enjoy your life more.

Learn Something New

The mind needs to be constantly challenged to continue to grow. Learning something new on a regular basis increases self-efficacy and leads to feelings of accomplishment. Whether learning a new fact to a new skill, acquiring knowledge is a valuable and enjoyable experience. Watch the news, listen to a podcast, and read a blog to pick up new information. Take a class, read a book, or join a club to learn new skills. Apply the information immediately to solidify it in your memory. Expand your view of life and the world through learning.

That night, eating dinner with four new Power and Love school people and as we get our drinks then four college young women set across from us in a booth. I was joking around with them. And one asked me about the three wooden crosses I am wearing. We visited a few minutes and gave all four young ladies a pocket cross with a small cross holding red bag.

I Blessed each young college woman one at a time with me holding her each one’s cross in their hand with mine holding her hand. The following four parts is about each one of them. I explained God the Holy Spirit has blessed me with a few special Super Natural Abilities. As I gave each one a cross I asked for something from God the Holy Spirit just for each of them. I ask our God the Holy Spirit for a “Word of Knowledge” about each young college woman below. The College young woman # 1 => After praying for her cross and her blessing: I asked for something from God the Holy Spirit just for HER.

(I am showing these four new people how I do my reach out to other people. Be back to this part in a bit.)

- - ----- < ^ ~ , , ~ ^ > ----- - -

1) Now back to the four women at Denny’s. “I got for you that you are going to be a “UPN”, you are working hard on your college studies and that your boyfriend is five foot eight inches tall and he has bright blue eyes, is that correct?” She says yes. “Ah. And he has lied to you. To you it is not any kind of big lie, but it is to him.

The what of the lie is not the point, the lie part is. The real point is that he has lied to you many times. You need to push him until it is worked out between you two. You are working hard on your studies and I may get back to you again in a little bit.”

She told me that I got a yes on everything but the UPN” part. “I told her that UPN is an Under Paid Nurse.” She said, “Yes, I am studying to be a RN.”

College young woman # 2 => After praying her cross and her blessing: I asked for something from God the Holy Spirit just for HER. “You want to end up in something for health, I think on food. Maybe a nutritionist. You are working hard on your studies. You don’t have any boyfriend right now but you are really kind of looking for him. You have a situation and you want more prayer on for other family members. You personally want God to show you how you can get closer to HIM, God. You can ask God the Holy Spirit and HE will slowly direct you in your way to a much richer relationship with our God. You are Catholic, you want and need more in your relationship with God. Okay. Get yourself a New Living Bible and it will help you a lot.” She agreed I got everything right.

Holding hands I said a short soft prayer for the Holy Spirit to get other family members back right with God. “I may get back to you in a little bit.”

College young woman # 3 => After praying for her cross and her blessing: I asked for something from God the Holy Spirit just for HER. “Okay, you love young kids, those younger than late teenagers. Because you know you can make a difference in their lives.

I am getting you want to be maybe a grade school teacher. You are working hard on your studies. You don’t have any boyfriend now and you don’t want one, well not yet. You want five kids of your own.” Still holding her hand I asked, “How did I do?” (She looks at the other three. Her face changes some. Not many young women today will admit they even want children not alone five children.) “I have never told that to anyone here but you got everyone of them right.” “Okay. I may get back to you in a little bit.”

College young woman # 4 => After praying for her cross and her personal blessing: I asked for something from God the Holy Spirit just for HER.

“You want to end up into something for people’s health and I think on food. Maybe to be a nutritionist too. You don’t have any boyfriend now and you are not really looking yet for your life’s boyfriend and life mate. You are working hard on your studies and this summer you want to get back with your three horses. Well how did I do?” She told us I got everyone right. “I may get back to you in a little bit.” Our food came for us. We could hear those four young women talking about all this. ‘God bless them.’

After we had eaten and the four college young women had eaten and none of us is in any hurry to go and they had some questions for me. I explained about why me holding their hand and prayer for their now personal pocket cross blessing and for their own (each ones) blessings.

I explained in detail my short (40 – sec.) soft prayer I had said for each of the young College women. I told them that they also could pray for other people and help other people and also pray to heal other people, well not them, they can't heal anyone but Jesus and God the Holy Spirit or Holy Ghost can through them. Told them that for their own quite time prayer for an hour each week and then for them they can get together for an hour of prayer for themselves and for other family members and go out an hour for others prayer. We talked about each one having their own quite prayer space or own quite prayer closet time for an hour each week. About one time a week for them to get together for a joint quite prayer time and maybe for the second hour they pray together and can ask God the Holy Spirit for some more specialty gifts for each of them from God. I explained how they each could ask for the Holy Spirit to give each of them some more special abilities. I explained how they each, of the four young girls could ask for the Holy Spirit to give each of them some more real just for each one special abilities to go out to help other people.

Aug. 9, 2019 Sat. AM => After the service. “You have been recommended for me to ask you something. You are the one from North Dakota?” This one of two high school girls said. “Yes. Okay.” “I want to know who I should pray for.” Okay, let me hold your hand.” She did. Okay.

“You have a girl as your class mate. She has dark hair and great big brown eyes. She is keeping it inside her and soon she will blow up. By that I mean is she is going to go crazy unless you with another girl pray for her.

It is her father, the next thing you need to pray and take care of is back when her father raped her when she was a little younger, like just last winter. You now know that what he did was evil and wrong in OUR God’s sight. However, she will, she must choose not to hold any unforgiveness towards him. He is in jail now. She is a 15 year old girl now. I think you know who I am talking about. She really keeps to herself. You need to ease into this like maybe for over an hour before praying. Okay?”

“Yeah, and we know who she is. She acted all different the last part of last year. We both know her.”

“I believe you are going to prevent her from committing suicide. Okay? She thinks no one cares about her but God really does.”

James Lee to Power and Love Testimony Group

Jesus heals today!

I was taking a walk along the East River in New York City this evening when I saw a lady walking slowly and haltingly with a cane. Her eyes were half closed, and I could feel the severe pain she was experiencing. I felt the compassion of Jesus for her and knew Jesus wanted to heal her. I approached her and said, "Jesus loves you!" I then asked her why she was walking so slowly with a cane.

She said because of seizures she fell down and broke her hip and she was in severe pain. I told her Jesus is our Healer and HE wants to heal her. She said she believed in Jesus. I offered to pray for her healing and she said yes. We then stopped by the river bank and I prayed a quick soft prayer in Jesus name. As I was praying, she began to smile and laugh in joy. I stopped and asked her how she felt. Her face was radiant with joy and she said she felt really good. I asked her if her pain was gone. She nodded and said, "Yes, all the pain is gone." She then began to walk normally without the cane and said, "See? I don't need the cane. All the pain is gone!"

We both broke out in praise to Jesus 😊 :) I then told her, "Jesus wants you to pray for other people for healing. All you need is faith of a little child."

She nodded and said she will pray for others. Jesus is Healer and HE can use anyone to heal others!

Battle Prayer to Cast Out the Demons

Sarah, You have now broken all of the legal rights of the demons with the above prayer that I gave you. They are now ready to be cast out with the battle prayer I will now give you. I would wait until everyone is out of the house and do this in private between YOU, God, and the demons.

1. The 1st part of the prayer will be you going to God the Father asking HIM to anoint you with HIS power to cast these demons out and off you for good. You will also be asking God to take this battle up for you and to have HIS power come through the Holy Spirit to drive these demons off you.
2. The 2nd part of the prayer will be when you will then turn around and verbally engage with the demons to now leave you in the name of Jesus Christ.
3. Say both parts of these prayers out loud so the demons can hear you loud and clear. Also, on the 2nd part of this prayer – hold out your right hand as you are telling the demons to now leave you. The right hand of God the Father is HIS hand of power and deliverance. As HIS born-again child, you now have the legal right to be able to do this. I would say this prayer out loud 3 or 4 times over the next couple of days.
4. Father, In the name of my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, I now boldly approach YOUR throne of grace and mercy. Father, I now come before YOU to once and for all to take these demons out of my life for good.
5. Father, I have already come before YOU, confessing all of the bad and sinful things I have ever done to YOU throughout most of my life.

I have also renounced my past activities and have told YOU that I will never, ever go back into those heavier sin areas again. Father, I have horribly wronged YOU with some of those past transgressions, and I am so sorry that I have ever gone against YOU and deliberately disobeyed YOU so many times.

But Father, now is the time to pick myself back up off the mat. Now is the time to make a brand new start with a brand new direction. I have already fully surrendered my body, my soul, my spirit, and my entire life into YOUR hands.

- - ----- < ^ ~ , ~ ^ > ----- - -

How many demons (evil spirits) have been ordered to attack every Christian in the world?

That would be over 7,000 (evil spirits to attack) for each person. Even those in the US.
